

Sanmati Tarka (Folder No. 1068)

Main Title

Acknowledgements

Foreword

Abreviations

Introduction

Contents

1. Siddhasena Divakara -----	1-103
(i) Siddhasena's date-----	1-18
(ii) Materials for his life -----	18-55
(a) Summary of Prabandha in the Prabhavaka Carita -----	20
(b) Comparison of all the Prabandhas-----	34
(c) A discussion of some important points -----	38
(iii) Siddhasena and other Jaina Acarya-----	56-93
(a) Kundakunda and Umaswati -----	56
(b) Pujiyapada and Samantabhadra -----	63
(c) Mulacara-----	71
(d) Mallavadi and Jinabhadra -----	71
(e) Simhaksamasramana Haribhadra and Gandha Hasti-----	86
(f) Akalanka and Vidynanda -----	87
(g) Silanka, Vadivetala Santi Suri and Vadi-Deva-----	89
(h) Hema Candra and Yasovijayaji -----	91
(iv) Siddhasena and other Non-Jaina Acaryas -----	93-103
(a) Nagarjuna, Maitreya, Asanga and Vasubandhu -----	94
(b) Asvaghosa and Kalidasa-----	96
(c) Dinnaga and Sankar Swami-----	98
(d) Dharmakirti and Bhamaha-----	101
2. The Commentator Abhayadeva-----	105-111
3. Sanmati and its Commentary-----	112-155
(i) The nature and style of the works -----	116-131
(a) Names of the two works-----	116
(b) Language of the text and commentary -----	121
(c) The style of the text and commentary-----	124
(d) Volume of the text and commentary -----	125
(e) Division of the text and commentary-----	127
(ii) Subject-matter -----	131-155
(a) Anekanta-vada -----	132
(b) Subjects connected with Anekanta-----	140
(c) The peculiar characteristics of Anekanta and the defects of Ekantavada --	150
4. Dwatrimikas of Siddhasena-----	156-185
I. A general idea of the times-----	157
II. Information about the author-----	159
III. The study of Dwatrimikas-----	162
(i) Style of Dwa. -----	164
(ii) Subject-matter -----	163
(a) Eulogistic Dwa. -----	164
(b) Dwa. Of critical character -----	173
(c) Dwa. Dealing with systems of philosophy and the nature of the things ----	176
Index-----	189-200

Sanmati_Tarka

Contents

Chapter I

1. Introductory verse in the form of a panegyric of the teaching of the prophet of Jainism with its peculiar merits-----	1
2. The Declaration of composing the work Sanmati-Tarka and its object -----	2
3. Indication of the main subject-matter of this work -----	2
4. Subdivisions of Dravyastika-naya -----	4
5. Subdivisions of Rjusutra-naya -----	6
6. Varieties of Niksepa and the distribution of the principal Nayas in it -----	8
7. The province of each Naya and the distribution of Nayas amongst various statements	11

8. Circumstances under which there occurs an overlapping of these two Principal Nayas	12
9. Summing up the discussion of the overlapping of the two Principal Nayas	14
10. The attitude of each Naya towards the other Naya	15
11. Both the Nayas touch different aspects of one and the same thing	16
12. Characteristic of a real thing	17
13. Explanation as to how both these Nayas become wrong	18
14. Explanation as to how and when both the Nayas can be regarded as right	19
15. What is true of these two Principal Nayas is also true in the case of their classification	20
16. No single Naya is competent to comprehend the Reality in its entirety	21
17-21. We cannot account for this worldly life, happiness and misery, bondage and liberation if we adhere exclusively to the standpoint of one single Naya	22
22-25. Illustration of the above statement	26
26. Merits of the illustration	28
27. If there is no co-relativity between Nayas, it leads to the sure defect of a Naya	29
28. The theory of the versatility of aspects (Anekanta) is the right theory	31
29. Limitations of each Naya	32
30. Description of Difference	33
31. Explanation as to how one substance becomes manifold	35
32. An illustration of Vyanjana-paryaya	36
33. All Vyanjana-paryayas cannot be considered as having an element of unity only	37
34. Distinction between Vyanjana-paryaya and Artha-paryaya	38
35. Exclusiveness of a view-point is always faulty and unscientific	39
36-40. Statement of the main feature of the Saptabhangi or the Heptagonal form of ontological enquiry	39
41. Distribution of these seven modes between Artha-paryaya and Vyanjana-paryaya	44
42. The view-point of Paryarthika-naya does not cover the whole truth	47
43. The real significance of the view-point of Dravyarthika-naya	47
44-46. The intrinsic nature of a man and the soul	49
47-48. The soul and the matter are from one point of view one and from another point of view different	52
49. Statement as to how things are philosophically termed when this intermingling of the soul and matter is into consideration.	55
50. Statement as to why a thing is called external or internal?	57
51-52. The standpoint of each Naya with reference to the soul and matter	58
53. Combination of the two Nayas makes the right Jaina view	60
54. Place for exception in Jaina view	61
Chapter II
1. Distinction between Jnana (Knowledge) and Darsana (Perception)	63
2. How Jnana and Darsana view the same thing	64
3. Exception to the rule of occurring Jnana and Darsana at the same time	65
4. The view of the consecutiveness of perception and knowledge which is based on Agama	68
5-8. Criticism of the above view by one who believes in the simultaneousness of perception and knowledge	70
9. The author who believes in the sameness of knowledge and perception questions his opponent and introduces his own view-point	73
10-14. The author charges his opponents with the faults in their argument	75
15. One who believes in consecutiveness defends himself but is finally silenced by the author	79
16-17. The author further explains his views	81
18. Author removes scriptural inconsistencies	83
19. Author removes all the doubts as regards his own view	84
20. Reason as to why one absolute knowledge is said to be two-fold	85
21-22. One who believes in oneness of Jnana and Darsana but in a way other than the Author comes forward and argues	86
23-24. The author replies him	88
25. Definition of Darsana	90
26. Over-absurdity avoided	92
27. Further explanation regarding accepted arrangement	94

28. Why Sruta Jnana is not Darsana-----	95
29. Arrangement of Avadhi-Darsana-----	96
30. Both Jnana and Darsana can simultaneously fit in with Kevala-upayoga which is only one-----	96
31. Contradiction evidenced in Canonical Literature avoided -----	97
32-33. Explanation of Darsana when used in the sense of faith -----	98
34-36. Mention of a delusion created by the word Sadi-aparyavasita and its removal- 100
37-42. Doubt as to the difference between Jiva and Kevala and its removal through example-----	103
43. Corroboration of difference in the same modificatory change -----	107
Chapter III
1-2. The mutual identity of the general and the particular -----	109
3-4. Explanation of the authentic words -----	111
5-6. Explanation as to how one and the same thing can be called both existent and non- existent-----	113
7. Statement as to how difference and sameness can reside in one and the same thing 116
8. The discussion of the oneness or otherwise of a substance and its attributes. The author first of all mentions the view-point of his opponent-----	117
9-15. With a view to refute his opponent the author first of all tries to establish an identity between attributes and transformations of a substance-----	119
16-18. Arguments of the person who regards a substance and its qualities as absolutely identical-----	125
19. Objection of the author-----	126
20. The person holding the view of absolute identity defends his own position-----	127
21. Author's reply-----	127
22. Argument of the complete identity and its refutation by the author-----	128
23-24. Refutation of the view which holds that the substance and its quality are absolutely different-----	133
25-26. The aim of the above discussion-----	136
27-28. The statement of the all-embracing range of this doctrine of Anekanta -----	137
29-31. The application of the view of Anekanta in respect to the objects (Prameyas) - 140
32-34. Different kinds of creation and destruction of a substance-----	142
35-37. Discussion of time-distinction etc. of origination, destruction, and permanence 148
38-42. Discussion of Dravyotpada according to Vaiseiska -----	152
43-45. Distinction between dogmatic and rational scriptures -----	159
46-49. Discussion of Naya-vada -----	163
50-52. Difference between Ekanta and Anekanta standpoints in the case of Karya (Effect) -----	168
53. Theories of causation are false if they are based on Ekanta view-point and true if they are grounded on Anekanta -----	172
54-55. Invalidity of Nastitva etc six theories as regards soul-----	173
56-59. Faults liable to crop up in the debate due to the absence of Anekanta Drsti ----	175
60. A proper method to make an exposition of a Tattva (Reality) -----	178
61-62. Faults in a Sutra which is taken as perfect -----	178
63. Important merits for the exposition of a Sastric lore -----	179
64-65. Statement as to what should be done for the attainment of perfect knowledge of the realities-----	180
66-67. Statement of faults which find place in outward show without serious thinking- 182
68. Knowledge alone or practice alone is not wanted -----	183
69. Conclusion -----	184