

CONTENTS

	Page
FOREWORD	xi
PREFACE	13
INTRODUCTION	17
Study of history of writing. Writing and early civilization. Various stages of writing: embryo-writing; iconography and "sympathetic magic"—rock pictures; mnemonic devices; symbolic means of communication; pictography or picture-writing; ideographic writing; transitional scripts; phonetic writing: syllabaries or syllabic writing; the alphabet.

FIRST PART

NON-ALPHABETIC SYSTEMS OF WRITING

Chapter

I. CUNEIFORM WRITING	41
The name. Beginnings. Development of system. The peoples who employed cuneiform writing: Sumerians; Babylonians and Assyrians; other peoples: Elamites: Early Elamite script; Neo-Elamite writing. End of the cuneiform writing. Decipherment. Bibliography.
II. HIEROGLYPHIC WRITING	58
The name. Origins. History of hieroglyphic writing. Hieratic writing. Demotic writing. Decipherment of Egyptian scripts. Bibliography.
III. CRETAN SCRIPTS	72
Minoan civilization. Undeciphered scripts of Crete: Pictographic scripts; Linear scripts. Origin of Cretan scripts. Attempted decipherments. The Phaistos disc. Bibliography.
IV. INDUS VALLEY CIVILIZATION AND ITS UNDECIPHERED SCRIPT	81
General sketch. Exploration, excavation and studies. Cultural and chronological relationships with other civilizations. The Indus Valley script. Origin. Attempted decipherments. Supposed influences on other scripts. Bibliography.

Adina Row of Sans Dept. - 505 - 242 - 54

Chapter	Page
V. HITTITES AND THEIR SCRIPTS	89
Hittites. The peoples: their languages and civilization. Main historical events. Hittite hieroglyphic writing. Origin of Hittite hieroglyphic writing. Bibliography.
VI. CHINESE LANGUAGE AND WRITING	98
Chinese. Origin of Chinese culture. Origin of Chinese writing. Earliest inscriptions. Story of Chinese characters: External form of Chinese symbols; main varieties of Chinese writing; systematization of Chinese characters; Phonetic dictionaries. Classification of Chinese characters. Modern Chinese writing; Representation of Chinese by Latin alphabet. Bibliography.
VII. ANCIENT CENTRAL AMERICA AND MEXICO, AND THEIR SCRIPTS	120
General sketch. "Mystery" of ancient Mexico. Study of ancient Mexico and Central America. Cultures of ancient Mexico and Central America. Main peoples who developed ancient Mexican and Central American cultures: Mayas; Zapotecs; Toltecs; Aztecs. Indigenous scripts of pre-Columbian America: Aztec character; Aztec codices; Aztec script. Maya script; Maya system of writing. Bibliography.
VIII. MYSTERIOUS SCRIPT OF EASTER ISLAND	136
"Mysterious" problem. Facts. The script. Origin. Connections with other scripts. Bibliography.
IX. OTHER IDEOGRAPHIC SCRIPTS	141
General sketch. "Ideographic" scripts of non-Chinese peoples of China: Lo-lo Mo-so group; Lo-lo script; Mo-so script; Man group. Central and northern China; Tangut script; bibliography. West African "ideographic" scripts: Nsibidi; the name; origin; the script; bibliography. Bamun script; bibliography. Recent ideographic scripts of American Indians; bibliography. Minabassa script. Chukcha script; bibliography. Appendix: Alaska Eskimo script; bibliography.
X. SYLLABIC SYSTEMS OF WRITING	158
Syllabaries. Pseudo-hieroglyphic script of Byblos: inscriptions; the script; decipherment. Cypriote syllabary: ancient Cyprus and her script; origin of Cypriote syllabary; bibliography. Japanese scripts: Prehistoric Japanese "writings"; origin of Japanese scripts; Japanese ideograms; Japanese syllabic scripts; bibliography; suggested introduction of Latin alphabet. Cherokee syllabary: the script; origin; Morice's and Eubanks' Cherokee-scripts; bibliography. Vai syllabary: the script; origin; bibliography. Mende syllabary; bibliography. Artificial scripts of native Canadian tribes: Cree syllabary; bibliography. South-western China: the Pollard and allied systems.

Chapter

Page

XI. QUASI-ALPHABETIC SCRIPTS 186

The scripts. Early Persian cuneiform script: the script; origin and end; inscriptions; decipherment; bibliography. Meroitic scripts: Meroë; the scripts; origin; influences; bibliography.

SECOND PART

ALPHABETIC SCRIPTS

I. ORIGIN OF ALPHABET 195

The problem. Egyptian theory. Other theories. Cretan theory. Prehistoric-geometric signs theory. Ideographic theory. Sinaitic theory. Ugarit cuneiform alphabet. The pseudo-hieroglyphic script of Byblos and the origin of the alphabet according to M. Dunand. Undeciphered inscriptions found in Egypt. Balu'a inscription. Other attempts at alphabetic writing. Early Canaanite inscriptions and "missing-link" theory. North Semitic inscriptions. Original alphabetic writing. Where was the alphabet invented? Influence of other systems. Decisive achievement. Absence of vowels. Names of letters. Order of letters. Main branches of early alphabets. Bibliography.

II. SOUTH SEMITIC ALPHABETS 223

Ancient South Arabia. South Semitic alphabets. South Arabian inscriptions. North Arabian inscriptions. Origin of South Semitic alphabets. Ethiopic script: origin; development of Ethiopic writing. Bibliography.

III. CANAANITE BRANCH 235

Canaanites. Early Hebrew alphabet; inscriptions; the script. Samaritan alphabet and script on Jewish coins. Scripts of Moabites, Ammonites, and Edomites. Phœnician alphabet. Bibliography. Probable offshoots of Phœnician alphabet: Libyan scripts; bibliography. Iberian scripts; bibliography.

IV. ARAMAIC BRANCH 253

The Aramaeans; Aramaean states; spread of Aramaic speech. Aramaic alphabet; development; "dog-Aramaic"; Armazi Aramaic. Offshoots of Aramaic alphabet: Classical Hebrew alphabet: origin; inscriptions and manuscripts; varieties of Hebrew alphabet; modern Hebrew alphabet; vowel marks; other diacritical marks; origin of punctuation marks and their employment; Yiddish and Judezmo. The Nabatæans and their script. Neo-Sinaitic alphabet. Arabic alphabet: Arabic language and script; origin of Arabic alphabet; early development of Arabic alphabet; development of Arabic script: Kufic and Naskhî; modern Arabic alphabet; diacritical points; adaptation of the Arabic character to other languages. Palmyrene alphabet. Syriac scripts: Syrians; their scripts; Syriac; Christian Palestinian or Palestinian Syriac; Syriac alphabet; vocalization; punctuation; direction of

Chapter

Page

- writing; varieties of Syriac scripts: Estrangela and its descendants; "alphabet follows religion"; Nestorians; "Assyrians"; Jacobites; Melkites; development of Nestorian, Jacobite and Melkite scripts; Neo-Syrian character; Garshuni; Greek in Syriac script. Mandæan alphabet. Manichæan alphabet. Bibliography.
- APPENDIX TO CHAPTER IV. (Section on Arabic alphabet). 295
 Malagasy scripts—problems awaiting solution. Yezidi cryptic script. Balti alphabet. Somali alphabet.
- V. NON-SEMITIC OFFSHOOTS OF ARAMAIC BRANCH 301
 "Alphabet follows religion." Kharoshthi script and the problem of Indian writings; coins and inscriptions; other documents; the script; bibliography. Persian or Iranian scripts: general sketch; Pahlavi; Aramaic "ideograms"; Pahlavi alphabets; the script; the Avesta; bibliography. Sogdian alphabet; bibliography. Kōk Turki runes; bibliography. Early Hungarian script; bibliography. Uighur alphabet; bibliography. Mongolian scripts; Manchu script; Kalmuck alphabet; Buriat alphabet; bibliography. Probable offshoots of Aramaic branch: Armenian scripts; Armenian; Armenian alphabet; origin of Armenian writing; bibliography. Georgian alphabets: Georgian; Georgian scripts; origin; bibliography. Alban or Alvan alphabet.
- VI. INDIAN BRANCH 328
 Origin of Indian writing: theories concerning origin of Brahmi script. Indian inscriptions. Development of Indian scripts: Early period (up to fourth century A.D.); main types of early Indian or Brahmī scripts: (1) script written from right to left; (2) Early Maurya type, third century B.C.; (3) Early Kalinga type—the "Dravidī" script; (4) Early western Deccan or Andhra script; (5) Late Maurya type; (6) Sunga type; (7) Prototypes of North Indian sub-division; (8) Prototypes of South Indian scripts. Further development of Indian scripts: North Indian scripts (fourth century A.D.-fourteenth century): North Indian monumental type known as Gupta; Central Asian Gupta sub-varieties: Central Asian slanting Gupta: Agnean and Kucchean; Agnean and Kucchean characters; bibliography. Central Asian cursive Gupta: Khotanese; Khotanese script; bibliography; Chinese in cursive Gupta character. Western branch of eastern Gupta; bibliography. Tibetan scripts and their offshoots: Passepa character; Lepcha character. Adaptation of the Tibetan character to other languages: Nam language; Chinese in Tibetan writing. Siddhamatrkā character; Deva-nagari script; Nandi-nagari; Deva-nagari character; Sarada script; Proto-Bengali character; Early Nepali or Newari character; "arrow-head" type. Modern North Indian scripts: North-eastern varieties: Bengali character; Oriya script; Maithili character; Early Manipuri character; Assamese character; Kaithi character; Gujarati script; Bihari character; eastern Hindi varieties; Mahajani character; Modi character. Modern north-western scripts: Takri character and its varieties: Dogri character; Chameali character; Mandeali character; Sirmauri character; Jaunsari character; Kochi character; Kului character; Kashtawari character. Landa scripts; Multani character; Sindhi varieties; Sindhi character; Gurmukhi script. South Indian scripts: Dravidian languages; development of South Indian characters: Western variety; Central Indian script; Kanarese and Telugu characters; Later Kalinga script; Grantha character: early Grantha; middle Grantha; transitional Grantha; modern Grantha; Tulu-Malayalam character. Tamil character. Vatteluttu character. Sinhalese character: Island of Ceylon; development of Sinhalese language and script: Pali-Prakrit Sinhalese; proto-Sinhalese; mediæval Sinhalese; modern Sinhalese; bibliography. Maldivian scripts: general sketch; Evela Akuru; Dives Akuru; Gabuli Tana. Syro-Malabaric alphabet; bibliography. Text of specimens of modern Indian scripts. Bibliography on the Indian scripts.

Chapter

Page

APPENDIX TO CHAPTER VI.

399

Saurashtran script.

VII. FURTHER-INDIAN BRANCH

401

General sketch. Indo-China ("French Indo-China"); bibliography. The Chams; the Khmers; development of Cham-Khmer characters; Chakma character. Burma: the Mons; the Pyu; the Burmans; bibliography; the Karens; Taungthu and Yao. Siam: the Shans; Lao character; Lü and Hkūn characters; Ahom character; Siamese character: origin; development; modern Siamese alphabet; bibliography; Siamese character adapted to Miao; scripts of "British Shans"; Khamti character; Aitonia character; Thai Mao or 'Thai Khe'; Chan Lao of Tongking; "Chinese Shans." Indonesia: Borneo; Malaya; ancient Java: old Javanese or Kavi character; origin; Kavi inscriptions; modern Javanese character; Sumatra: Sumatran native characters: Batak; Lampong and Redjang characters; Celebes: Celebes scripts; origin; Buginese character; conclusion. Bibliography. Philippine Islands: general sketch; ancient characters; Tagalog character; Tagbanua and Mangyan characters; varieties of scripts; vowel-signs; punctuation; peculiar postal service; direction of writing; origin of Philippine scripts; bibliography.

APPENDIX TO CHAPTER VII

442

Korean character: Ūn-mun or Ōn-mun; vowels and consonants; is the Korean alphabet perfect? Origin of Korean alphabet; bibliography. Woleai syllabary (?): the island; native script; origin; bibliography.

VIII. THE GREEK ALPHABET AND ITS OFFSHOOTS

449

The Greeks. Origin of the Greek alphabet. Changes introduced in the Greek alphabet. Varieties of early Greek alphabet. Greek vowels. Greek sibilants. Additional consonantal signs. Classical Greek alphabet. Development of Greek writing. Greek inscriptions and manuscripts. Conclusion. Bibliography. Asianic alphabets: Lycian alphabet; Phrygian alphabet; Pamphylian alphabet; Lydian alphabet; Carian script; conclusion; bibliography. Coptic alphabet; bibliography. Nubian character; bibliography. Messapian alphabet; bibliography. Gothic alphabet; bibliography. Early Slavonic alphabets: Cyrillic alphabet; adoption of the Cyrillic alphabet for, and its adaptation to, other languages; reform of Russian orthography; Bukvitsa; Glagolitic alphabet; origin of Cyrillic and Glagolitic alphabets; bibliography. Local Albanian alphabets; bibliography. Alphabets of western Europe.

Chapter

Page

IX. ETRUSCAN AND ITALIC ALPHABETS 490

The Etruscans. Etruscan inscriptions. Etruscan alphabet. Origin of Etruscan alphabet. Development of Etruscan script. Last stage of Etruscan alphabet. Offshoots of the Etruscan alphabet: alphabet of the Piceni; Venetic alphabet; North Etruscan alphabets; Italic scripts: Oscan alphabet; Umbrian alphabet; Siculan alphabet; Latinian alphabets: Faliscan alphabet. Bibliography.

APPENDIX TO CHAPTER IX.—RUNES AND OGHAMS 507

Runes: the name; inscriptions and written documents; runic manuscripts; inscriptions found in Sweden; Denmark and Schleswig; Norway; the British Isles; other countries; earliest inscriptions; origin of runes; the Futhark; development of runic writing: Early or Common Teutonic or Primitive Norse; Slavic runes; Anglo-Saxon or Anglian runes; Nordic or Scandinavian varieties; Halsinge runes; the Manx runes; the dotted runes; cryptic varieties; end of runic scripts; bibliography. Oghams: the name; oghamic inscriptions; origin of the oghams; oghamic scripts; bibliography. Pictish oghams: the Picts; the script; heraldry (?); bibliography. Teutonic oghams(?); bibliography.

X. THE LATIN ALPHABET 533

Early Latin inscriptions. Origin of the Latin alphabet. Development of the Latin alphabet. Latin cursive scripts. Varieties of the Latin alphabet. Mediæval varieties of the Latin alphabet: Italian semi-cursive minuscule; other continental hands; Insular or Anglo-Irish hands: Irish hand; Anglo-Saxon hand. Caroline or Carolingian hand. "Black letter" or Gothic. "Italic" and "Roman" types. Adaptations of the Latin alphabet to other languages. English alphabet. Problem of a standard international alphabet. Bibliography.

APPENDIX TO CHAPTER X. 562

Specimens of adaptations of Latin script to African languages: Nyanja; Twi; Yoruba; Efik. Oberi kaimɛ script.

CONCLUSION 566

Adaptation of alphabetic scripts to other languages; adaptation of scripts to Turki dialects. Other unknown scripts. External development of letters. Numerals—abbreviations—stenography.

GENERAL BIBLIOGRAPHY 574

INDEX 577